The purpose of this study was to evaluate the effect of surgical experience on the outcomes of laparoscopic cholecystectomy (LC) with the four-trocar technique. Our database was retrospectively searched for all LCs performed by a single surgeon from January 2004 to December 2010. In total, 1,891 patients who underwent LC with the four-trocar technique were analyzed. The surgical outcomes of LC were compared between the first (LC1) and second (LC2) year after the development of the four-trocar technique. The surgical outcomes of LC with LC2 were compared with those of LC1. The number of LC cases with LC2 in each year was 434 (42.5%) and 548 (57.5%) in total. The mean operation time was 73.9 ± 25.8 min for LC1 and 76.3 ± 25.9 min for LC2. In LC2, mean operating time was significantly reduced compared with LC1 ($p = 0.004$). The mean estimated blood loss (EBL) was 75.8 ± 53.7 mL for LC1 and 52.4 ± 43.0 mL for LC2 (p
